Use of Social Networking Websites The use of online social networking sites (Facebook, My Space, Twitter etc) has grown significantly over recent years and become a significant part of life for many people. While these sites can provide a positive way to keep in touch with friends, family or colleagues, it is important to ensure that the informal nature of such sites does not give rise to professional or ethical concerns or breaches of confidentiality by councillors. It is important that councillors are aware of the potential problems that can arise from their use of social networking. Using aliases or pseudonyms to comment should be discouraged. Honesty and transparency are crucial to maintaining the council's credibility. Councillors should fact check all comments to ensure that they are accurate and based on fact before posting them on any site. Social networking sites are not secure and can be accessed by the general public. It is therefore essential that no information is placed on social networking which could:

- Breach confidentiality, trust or ethics.
